

ARMY OF HUNTERS READY FOR SEASON

About 500,000 Will Ramble
the Hills and Forests
With Shotguns.

GAME NOT ONLY TARGET

Farmers Expect to Suffer as Usual Through Shots
Fired at Cattle.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau,
Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.

An army of 500,000 hunters is preparing to take the field in the United States November 1, when the open season for game begins in most States. Attorney-General Daugherty, officials of the Department of Justice and game wardens in every section are ready to supervise the slaughter to insure recognition by the hunters of the multitude of laws intended to protect game.

Manufacturers and dealers in guns, shells, hunting outfits and sporting garments are beginning to experience a rush of business in anticipation of the open season, which in most States continues throughout November.

Farmers are anxiously awaiting the day when shots will begin to echo through the fields and woods. Amateur sportsmen have been known to destroy cows, horses and other stock by accident.

Physicians and nurses in hospitals and big cities know that their services will be needed in many cases of accidental shooting. Scores of amateur sportsmen were wounded and killed during the hunting season last year.

Mine operators expect to experience difficulty in filling their payroll lists. Miners, experience shows, are inveterate hunters. The number of employees always falls off in all mines during the open season for game. It is well known. Lack of employment this year is not expected to discourage those miners who are enthusiastic for the sport of tracking game.

Express companies know that their services will be needed by many hunters to transport big game from the field to home. Additional cold storage facilities are being made ready by the railroads.

Next week hunters will begin to gather in the foothill towns of the Rockies, in the marsh districts of the river valleys of the Eastern States and in the towns on the edges of the forests of the Michigan peninsula. In the Northern States guides are getting ready the accommodations for the visiting hunters in anticipation of a record number of guests. Canoes and boats are being painted and patched. In small towns hotel keepers expect a rush of business. Restaurants of big cities are booking orders for game to be delivered during November.

Signs announcing the sale of venison steak soon will appear in the windows of the corner meat shops of big cities. The Department of Commerce today

First Hunting Accident Reported in Adirondacks

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Oct. 15.—The first accident of the Adirondacks deer hunting season occurred today when Earl Ayers, 28, of Amsterdam, was wounded in the head by the discharge of a shotgun at Griffin, in Hamilton county.

officially recognized the sportsman by making public a general invitation to all American hunters to visit Slam, which is now regarded as the world's best remaining hunting ground. Tigers, leopards, rhinoceros, wild cattle, Himalayan black bear, deer and wild pig are some of the varieties of game which may be pursued and slain in the wilds of Slam, according to reports of American Consul James P. Davis at Bangkok. American sportsmen who wish to visit Slam for hunting may leave elephants on which to tour the jungles for $1.00 a day, according to the report of Mr. Davis, which gives minute directions to sportsmen as to the most approved manner of planning trips. Scores of Americans are expected to accept the Slam invitation for a few months' big game slaughter, officials say. Hunting in Slam is a matter of at least a month in the jungle. Mr. Davis's report makes clear. "Any one thinking of running out from Bangkok for a few days' tiger shooting between boats had best stay at home," Mr. Davis warned, "but the sportsman prepared to remain a month or more in the jungle at a cost of at least several hundred dollars and willing to take his chances of failure and fever will probably be well rewarded for his efforts. "The outfit," directs Consul Davis, "should include all arms and ammunition, suits of heavy duck, with flies, cots, mosquito nets of small mesh, cooking materials and supplies of medicines. All except provisions should be brought from home in order to avoid the high market prices of Bangkok. "It is desirable to employ after arrival a Siamese interpreter to accompany the expedition, to make purchases and also to make arrangements for the hiring of hunters, trackers and coolies."
